AUSTSWIM announce a strategic partnership with Belgravia Leisure

AUSTSWIM will provide swimming and water safety teacher training and staff development in facilities that are part of the Belgravia Leisure Management Group.

The training will offer community education in teaching swimming and water safety, infant and preschool aquatics and also includes training teacher for access and inclusion.

The Aqua Leaders training and the Aquatic Service Officer course is included in the program; offering existing AUSTSWIM teachers opportunities to enhance their career pathway options.

Further development of the partnership aims to train specific Belgravia Leisure personnel to attain AUSTSWIM Presenter status.

Belgravia Leisure CEO, Nick Cox, said the partnership was an important development in the organisations commitment to swimming and water safety education and staff development.

“We are looking forward to the quality training opportunities that AUSTSWIM can provide that will enable our staff team to enhance and build on their existing knowledge and skills”

Gordon Mallett, AUSTSWIM CEO, said that the partnership was mutually beneficial, with many more Australians being the big winners as they gain knowledge, skill and understanding for safer aquatic participation. “It’s an exciting time for AUSTSWIM and Belgravia Leisure to work in partnership and develop a mutually beneficial relationship.”
